Finding a Campus Job

Campus Job Types

Campus jobs may be classified as “work-study” or “non-work-study.” Work-Study is a program that gives eligible students the opportunity to gain work experience and earn money. It is awarded as part of some financial aid packages.

Work-Study allows students to work conveniently on campus and can be a great way to network. Note: Students must work in order to access the money awarded to them.

A non-work-study job is a campus job that does not require a work-study award. However, if a student has been awarded work-study, it may be used.

FAQs

Q: HOW DO I FIND OUT IF I'M ELIGIBLE FOR WORK-STUDY?
If you applied for financial aid through the Office of Financial Aid and Scholarships, you can check whether they awarded you work-study funds on your “My Aid Award” page.

Q: WHERE DO I GO TO GET MORE INFORMATION ABOUT WORK-STUDY AWARDS?
The Office of Financial Aid and Scholarships provides detailed information about using work-study funds on your “My To-Do List” page.

Q: WHERE DO I FIND WORK-STUDY JOBS?
The Division of Career Pathways can help you search for the right work-study job through their professional staff, peer advisors, and online via Handshake.

Q: WHAT HAPPENS IF I DON'T USE MY WORK-STUDY?
If you fail to use your work-study, you run the risk of losing it for the next academic school year.

Q: IS IT POSSIBLE TO WORK OFF CAMPUS AND EARN WORK-STUDY?
There are a limited number of positions off campus that offer work-study. Check Handshake for the most up to date listings of available positions.

Q: CAN I WORK IN TWO DIFFERENT DEPARTMENTS AND STILL COLLECT WORK-STUDY?
Yes, but you have to collect a signed agreement form from each department and coordinate your hours with each department to not exceed the maximum 19.5 hours permitted during the academic year.
